

Dear visitors

At the World Organisation for Animal Health (OIE), we value the importance of delivering transparent and reliable information on animal health and welfare protection.

We are very excited to announce the launch of our newly renovated website. Our new website is faster, secure and easier to navigate and more user-friendly.

As the leader in the animal health sector and One Health collaboration, we want our information to be swiftly accessible to leaders and stakeholders who share the same goals in protecting animal health and the health of all.

Visitors can now gain easier access to our initiatives, documentation and updates on improving animal health worldwide in one secure and accurate source.

We invite you to check our new website at <https://www.oie.int>
